The fence is a type of person that stolen items can be sold too. The price is set, and can be accepted or not. Fences first appeared in The Elder Scrolls Online as 6 updated and the introduction of the justice system. Fences can only be found in shelter outlaws, and often there are two in each location. They can also remove the award from the character's head. This must be done before the stolen items can be sold to the fence. There are a few differences from the fences in The Elder Scrolls Online and others in the series though: The fences in this game have a limited number of items that can be sold every day. This starts at 50 points per day, but can be increased by 120% for each rank of relevant Legerdemain skills posted. Fences can also launder items for the player, allowing them to then not appear as stolen, which means saved. The NPCs fence can be found inside the Outlaws Reserve. These fence traders trade gold for your stolen goods, launder items, and pay money. There is a limit on how many items you can sell per day, so its recommended to sell your goodies from the best (most expensive) to the worst (least expensive). Fence merchants will: Exchange gold for stolen items To remove your reward (thus removing criminal status)Allow players to launder stolen items in addition to selling goods to the swordsman, they will also launder items. This process converts an item from stolen into a non-stolen one (IDK, what else to call it). For example, if you steal a lock picks from the NPC, head over to the fence, find the laundering tab, and pay the price of the item. This will make the item legal and cannot be taken away from you if the guard catches you with a reward. In addition to trading stolen goods for gold, the fence merchant will give you the opportunity to pay your reward. If you have a reward, the first time you talk to a fence merchant, this option will be available. There are passive skills in Legerdemain tree skills and tree skills Thieves Haven that can lower the percentage of rewards you have to pay. In addition, these trees skills have many different liabilities that all assist in the efforts of committing crimes. List all outlaw asylum sites to find outlaw asylum peek into major cities. This is due to the fact that most refugees have two secret entrances. Each entrance will be unique and creative. For example, the entrance can be an inconspicuous pipe on the outskirts of the city or a sewerage bar. The only indicator will be the symbol and interaction that pops up when you get close enough.
